

RST FIT GUIDE:

To help you choose the correct fit for your riding requirements, we offer a fit guide across our catalogue to advise which styles are best suited to each type of riding:

RACE - this is an aggressive fit designed for racing and track days and aimed at professional riders so you can expect the fit to be tighter and most comfortable when you are on your bike.

SPORT - this is an aggressive look but with a slightly more relaxed fit. It's easy to wear both on and off the bike and is just as great on a track day as it is on a social ride with friends.

STREET - this is a relaxed, comfortable fit with a definite motorcycle look. It's perfect for all round use.

TOUR - this is designed for endurance rides where you'll be riding for extended periods of time. The fit is suited to the upright riding position, and is cut to be slightly roomier and (with a longer length on jackets to help protect you from the weather).

ADVENTURE - similar to the tour fit, but with even more features for the rider who really wants to push themselves to the max. The adventure fit is perfect for endurance rides and biking holidays. You can expect the cut to be slightly roomier with longer length on jackets to protect you from the weather.

URBAN - this is a more casual look with a relaxed fit perfect for the city rider who wants the versatility of feeling comfortable and looking as good both on the bike, as walking the streets or in the pub.

ONE-PIECE RACE SUITS - With a race / sport fit, our one-piece suits are designed to be used on sportsbikes, so the suit is cut for this style of riding position. The suit should be comfortable on the bike, but may feel restrictive when off the bike or walking. RST recommends only to wear undergarments such as RST Tech X underneath and always to use a back protector. The Pro Series is our professional fit so may feel tighter and more race focused for the same size when compared to a TracTech Evo or R16.

LEATHER JACKETS - Leather jackets are cut differently depending on intended use, so jackets in the race / sport end of the spectrum such as CPXC and Tractech Evo will have more aggressively tailored arms and be shorter in the body than say a Blade or R16. Urban fitting jackets such as the Retro or Roadster jacket will be have a more relaxed fit and straighter arms. Jackets can be worn with just undergarments (and many have removable thermal linings) or can be worn with other layers underneath. Please be aware if you wish to wear multiple layers underneath consider trying on one size larger than you may expect. If you are purchasing a jacket that has a pocket for a back protector please note that if you intend to fit one it will tighten the fit.

LEATHER JEANS - All RST leather jeans are tailored to match their respective jackets, just like the jackets the sportier jeans have a more aggressive fit and specific tailored leg shape and are designed to be comfy and ergonomic on sports bikes. RST recommend only wearing base layers such as Tech X underneath all jeans. Standard jean leg length is 31 inch's (this is the ideal length when used with motorcycle boots and should finish just above the ankle) however we do offer ranges available in both short leg (29 inches) and long leg (33 inches).

TEXTILE JACKETS - Textile jackets offer the widest range of fit options with both variation in cut, tailoring and length. Race / Sports fit jackets are the shortest with the most aggressively tailored arm position, mid length jackets will be more accommodating in size and fit and have a longer body and touring/ adventure jackets will have a longer length and fit in a more relaxed way for a more upright riding position. All textile jackets can be worn with either base layers or multiple layers underneath, but jackets in the mid length and touring styles will have more room inside for a given size. However if you intend to wear multiple thick layers you may need to go up one or two sizes. If you are purchasing a jacket that has a pocket for a back protector please note that if you intend to fit one it will tighten the fit.

TEXTILE JEANS - As with leather jeans, textile jeans are designed only to be worn with base layers such as Tech X or TWB. However if you intend using a thicker than normal undergarment you may need to go up one size. Standard jean leg length is 31 inch's (this is the ideal length when used with motorcycle boots and should finish around the ankle) however we do offer ranges available in both short leg (29 inches) and long leg (33 inches).

FINDING THE CORRECT FIT. - All RST garments are designed to be ridden in, and the cut of the product will change how it feels compared to another product of the same size.

RST sizing starts from the chest (jackets / one pieces) and waist (jeans); sizing is in inches and is an UPTO size, so if your chest measures 39.5" the place to start is a size 40/S, if you measure 40.5" then you should start with a 42/M if you measure exactly 40 you could be either 40/S or 42/M!

Please bear in mind though the actual fit of the garment will depend greatly on your body shape, intended use and personal preference. We always recommend trying the garment on before purchase. The best place for this is your nearest RST dealer who can offer specific advice for the garment you are intending to buy and can explain the differences in fit between RST products.
